

Gretchen Neill, M.Ln,

Gretchen Neill has worked in higher education, public and private, throughout her career. During the time she was with DeKalb College (now Georgia Perimeter College) she was heavily involved with visiting teams with SACS--going back to the mid 1970's.

After a full career at DeKalb College, she worked with the State of GA approving agency for private institutions, NPEC where she did staff work and served on team visits. She is an experienced consultant having worked through the SACS consulting network and independently.

She is now working for and assisting a new university with SACS and TRACS accreditation, as well as, consulting through the American Leadership Group.
