

Catherine Garland

Cathy Garland has extensive experience with student management systems and internet-based learner management systems that enable schools to implement online academic programs. She has held a number of positions over the past twelve years involving marketing software and media, supporting higher education, and providing non-profit organizations with needed resources. She has over seven years of sales and marketing experience with a reputation for delivering sales and enhancing marketing image of each company in work history.

Her areas of expertise include elearning, marketing software and media, supporting higher education, providing non-profit organizations with needed resources, and working with smaller companies to take them to the "next level."